

A swaddling coverlet made from Tenugui (Japanese hands towel)

is a swaddling coverlet made from Tenugui (Japanese hands towel). The coverlet has exceptional breathability and water absorbancy, and it becomes softer to the skin with increased use. The "good luck" pattern is intended to bring a child health and prosperity.

This item encourages children to be mindful of the value of things as they grow.

Tokyo honzome

Swaddling coverlet made from Tenugui (Japanese hands towel)

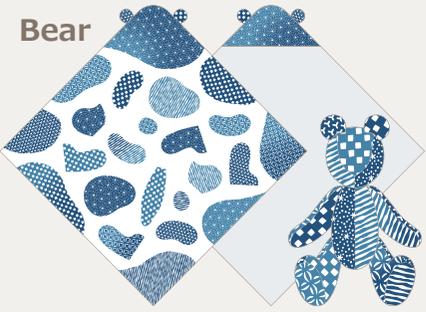

Manufacturer
Tokyo Wazarashi

4-14-9 Tateishi, City of Katsushika, Tokyo 〒124-0012

For inquiries 03-3693-3333

<https://wazarashi.com/>

Bear

5 models

77cm x 77cm
100% cotton

Cat

Rabbit

Panda
(blue & yellow)

Panda
(gray)

Package contents

In addition to the swaddling coverlet, each package contains an "explanation manual," "cotton stuffing," and "sewing thread," so you only need a sewing needle to create a stuffed toy from this product.

An explanation about the animals

Among the animals that children like, we chose to offer "a bear, a rabbit, and a cat" as options for stuffed animals. We also included "a panda," which is a popular animal at Ueno Zoo. We used ombre dyeing like Tokyo steam printing to produce the colors that depict these animals.

About the designers

MARLC

Kotoko Hirata and Mami Takemoto are a pair of creative designers. In line with the concept of "arranging things with a flourish," the pair has done a wide variety of design work in areas such as branding (mostly graphics), product planning, advertising, and packaging.

WEB : <http://marlc.com/> MAIL : info@marlc.com

